

Bataan veteran reveals radiograms between commanders attempting Philippines surrender

EDITOR'S NOTE: This month marks the 45th Anniversary of the Fall of Corregidor to the Japanese. On Monday, Memorial Day will be celebrated in memory of all Americans who gave their lives for their country.

The Persian Gulf incident this month involving the USS Stark, other wars and threats of wars across the world today make it fitting to publish the messages of the fall of Corregidor obtained by Joseph E. (J.C.) Baxter of Bay St. Louis.

Baxter, a Hancock County native, was captured by the Japanese in the Philippines and is one of a few survivors of the famed Bataan March.

The Sea Coast Echo first published the horrors of war suffered by Baxter as a prisoner of war in addition to the experiences of W.A. (Fried) Curet, a Hancock County native who was captured by the Japanese as a machine gunner at the entrance of the Corregidor Tunnel Hospital.

On Monday those who gave their lives fighting for America's freedom in all wars involving America will be memorialized.

As Americans, we must remember those who went to war fighting for our freedoms and lost their lives doing so.

Subject: The 45th anniversary of the Fall of Corregidor.

Dear Sir:

I have in my possession copies of radiograms involving the surrender of Corregidor and the fortified islands of Manila Bay to the Japanese in 1942.

I have been given permission to make public the contents of these until now unpublished messages. I do this to keep alive the minds of Americans the memory of the men who fought and died in the Philip-places.

May 6, 1942 was a dark day in American military history. Lt. General Jonathan M. Wainwright surrendered the last American garrison in the South Pacific to Lt. General Homma of Japan. Following is the final message sent from Corregidor by General Wainwright to the American Commander-in-Chief, President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Message From Wainwright:
"With broken heart and head bowed in sadness but not in shame, I report to your Excellency that today I must arrange terms for the surrender of the fortified islands of Manila Bay stop.

"There is a limit of human endurance and that limit has long since been passed stop Without prospect of relief I feel it is my duty to my country and to my gallant troops to end this useless effusion of blood and human sacrifice stop If you agree, Mr. President, please say to the nation that my troops and I have accomplished all that is humanly possible and that we have upheld the best tradition of the United States and its Army stop.

"May God bless and preserve you and guide you and the nation in the effort to ultimate victory stop With profound regret and with continued pride in my gallant troops I now go to meet the Japanese enemy stop

Goodbye, Mr. President Wainwright."

Immediately following this message to President Roosevelt, Wainwright sent this radiogram to the commander of the southern forces:

"To Sharp 3CF 20 X May 6, 1942: "All forces in the Philippines except those on fortified islands at entrances to Manila Bay are hereby released to your command stop

"Inform all concerned report at once to General MacArthur for orders stop I believe you will understand CORREGIDOR—Page 5A

Public hearing set Wednesday

Utility rate increase options to be discussed

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second article in a three-part series on the proposed Bay St. Louis utility rate changes. The third article to appear May 31 will describe the public's reactions to the changes.

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Three options for increased Bay

St. Louis utility rates will be presented Wednesday in a 7 p.m. public hearing at the Valena C. Jones cafeteria.

These options are part of a major revision of the city's utility rates as proposed last week by Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr.

He told the city council the changes are necessary to generate $2.1 million of additional funding needed, make each utility become self-supporting and insure each user pays a fair share of costs.

Option One, which reflects the largest increase for customers, will provide complete funding for all projected financial needs.

However, the increase is not expected to be more than $3 per month for small residential customers.

Larger monthly increases would be noted for large residential and commercial users.

According to Frankiewicz, these rates would be stable for at least four years and probably longer.

"These rates would also give us the flexibility to handle the inevitable deterioration of our sewer system," he added.

Option Two would generate funds necessary to meet day-to-day financial needs but would not provide significant funding for depreciation and replacement.

"The rates might hold for four years, but we have no assurance of that and major system deterioration would probably require a rate hike later," Frankiewicz said.

This option will allow gas rates to be lowered slightly, he added.

The third option is similar to Option Two but funding for isolated utility extensions is deleted.

There is no across the board minimum bill under any of the options, which all include new provisions to insure each user is paying their fair share of the costs of the system.

Each customer's bill will reflect the front footage of their lot, amount of metered service and actual services being received.

Frankiewicz says under the current rate structure, users are paying too large a share and large institutions are being charged less than the actual cost of providing services.

Research to determine how the rate structure should be set up, took several months for city workers.

"We have come up with a method we believe will fairly divide the costs of the system, between the users," City Clerk Edward Favre said.

The council is expected to meet 5 p.m. Tuesday at city hall in a workshop session to review the proposed changes prior to the public hearing.

Large commercial users are also invited to a meeting Thursday at city hall for additional explanation of the changes.

County school district employs accreditation expert

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County School Board Saturday employed Dr. Richard Whalen to serve as a consultant as the school district prepares for accreditation evaluation.

"We need to be ready for this most complex part of the 1982 Education Reform Act which affects every aspect of the school system," according to Superintendent Terrell Randolph.

Whalen worked with the Long Beach School District through its accreditation evaluation and helped get it through as one of the highest ranked in the state, he added.

Board President Frank Miller said he understood that several other school districts had been in contact with Whalen, and if the board wanted to employ him it should act before June 1.

The board voted unanimously to employ Whalen.

He will be employed for a period of two months, beginning in January 1988, for a sum of $8,000.

Among his duties will be to write school board policies to conform with requirements of the State Department's Commission on School Accreditation, analyze or prepare documentary evidence needed in preparation for the on-site visit and conduct workshops and work sessions to better prepare faculty and administration for the on-site evaluation.

Randolph also reported the accreditation evaluation for the Hancock School District had been postponed until the 1988-89 school year.

In other business at the meeting Charles B. Murphy Principal Philip Terrell tendered his resignation to the school board effective at the end of the school year.

"A part of me wants to stay with the Hancock School District, but a greater part of me wants to explore other opportunities," he said.

Terrell also said he was appearing before the board to personally express his appreciation for backing and support he has received while working in the school district.

Board Member Lennette Necaise told Terrell she knew from working with him as a teacher, principal and board member he had done a fantastic job.

"This is certainly Hancock County School District's loss and I hope we will be able to attract you back someday," Necaise continued.

Randolph also said Terrell's resignation would be a "tremendous loss" for the district.

"Mr. Terrell has always been aggressive and has done a great job where ever he was in the school district," he added.

Last year Terrell was recommended by Randolph as principal for Hancock North Central High School but this move which included several administrative transfers was blocked by the board.

Terrell is expected to be working with the Gulfport School System as principal of a school with approximately three times the number of students at Murphy.

Randolph also said Mrs. Philip Terrell, who has been an asset to the district both as a teacher and counselor, will also be leaving the district.

Also at the meeting, Randolph distributed copies of a survey by Harry T. Smith, civil engineer, on a 40-acre site proposed for a new junior-senior high school.

According to the survey, elevation on the site ranges from 11.6 feet to 12.2 feet.

However the board stated in spite

Supervisors accept proposal for easing unit system woes

By DENA BISNETTE

Members of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors are still trying to work out their differences over the unit system.

The supervisors have now agreed not to talk to their road employees or to drainage or road maintenance foremen.

A discussion touched off Wednesday by Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro's statement, "I just don't know where the men work now" provided several suggestions on how to deal with some board members' dissatisfaction with the system but only one was actually brought to a vote.

Perniciaro began the discussion by stating that the City of Bay St. Louis was giving away dirt from a city project Tuesday and had offered him some for the county.

However, Perniciaro wasn't able to get a county truck to haul away the dirt when he called the county maintenance barn at Kiln.

After County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson explained that the dirt was being hauled about it, Perniciaro continued to contend that he has trouble getting a crew to work on roads or drainage.

He criticized the promptness with which county crews and machines are provided to work on projects in which Hancock County has agreed to assist Bay St. Louis, alleging that work elsewhere is being neglected.

Board President and Beat Two Supervisor A.A. Kellar said he feels that too much work is being provided in certain parts of the county while others, including much of Beat Two, are being neglected.

He had recommended at previous meetings that the foremen be placed back in their original beats, only to be told by Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge that "That's not the unit system anymore if you do that."

On Wednesday, Kellar mentioned the earlier recommendation but then asked that the board switch the foremen handling drainage and maintenance in the north district to the south district, and put the south foremen in the north district.

Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner said he was for quarantining the county and using the four foremen for both drainage and road maintenance in those areas.

The county had four foremen, one for each beat except Beat Two, when the unit system started. Kellar served as his own road foreman.

Perniciaro said he favored Kellar's proposal and Beat Five Supervisor James Travirca said he favored Kellar's original recommendation that the foremen be reassigned to their original beats.

Courge said that he believes that work orders should still be assigned on a priority basis, one of the major differences between the unit system as it exists and the beat system as it existed in Hancock County.

Under the beat system, road and bridge monies were divided evenly among the five beats and each supervisor was responsible for the projects in his own district.

Under the unit system, the board is supposed to serve in an administrative capacity and leave direction of road work to Johnson, according to Courge.

Johnson takes complaints and work request at the maintenance barn and if a work request is made directly to a supervisor, that supervisor is supposed to submit a work order to Johnson.

The maintenance superintendent is then supposed to assign priorities

Mobile man arrested in alleged bribery

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department, in a joint investigation with District Attorney Cono Carranna's office, has arrested a Mobile, Ala., man on bribery charges.

According to Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson, Jimmy Moore Carter, 43, has been jailed on three counts of bribery.

The sheriff said Carter was arrested Monday morning, the day he was scheduled for trial on other charges in Hancock County Circuit Court. Bond has been set at $50,000.

Carter had been indicted on charges of grand larceny and possession of burglary tools by the January Grand Jury.

Peterson stated that the sheriff's department and the district attorney's office had been investigating Carter during the past several months because Carter, after being indicted, had allegedly approached a local bail bondsman about "having his case taken care of."

The bondsman subsequently agreed to cooperate in the investigation.

The bondsman, wearing audio wiring, allegedly received five $100 bills from Carter on April 22. On April 30, another $700 was allegedly delivered to the same individual, who was still wearing audio equipment, Peterson stated.

At 7 a.m. on May 18, beside a US-90 business in Bay St. Louis, the suspect met with a Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator, also wired with sound equipment, and allegedly delivered $1,000 in cash, the sheriff added.

Following the alleged exchange of money, Carter was arrested by Sheriff's Department Investigators a Picayune man has been arrested in a break-in investigation at Pearl-ington.

According to Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Alvin Ladner, James Schwartz of Tigris St., Shoreline Park, and Steve Muirhead of 1130 Edna St., Waveland, were arrested May 23 by Deputy Leo Ladner.

The arrests followed a May 22 burglary in which 109 bottles of whiskey and an outboard motor were taken.

Ladner said one of the victim's neighbors reported seeing a vehicle involved in the burglary and had provided the sheriff's department with a description.

The same neighbor contacted the sheriff's department the following day and reported that the vehicle was in the area near the burglarized house again.

Schwartz and Muirhead have been released on $2,500 bond each, Ladner said. The motor and whiskey have been recovered.

In an unrelated burglary, Deputies Willie Lee and Albert Biehl arrested Donald Roche, 40, of Picayune May 17 in connection with a break-in at a Pearlington residence, Ladner said.

The investigator said Roche was charged with burglary.

A neighbor of the victim telephoned the sheriff's department after allegedly witnessing the break-in.

Ladner said Roche was stopped by the deputies a short distance from the house and arrested.

"Education: The Way Up," which is produced by Mississippi ETV, looks at innovative and successful programs in Mississippi schools and at some of the ways that education is improving in the state.

A mini-documentary included in the program is a profile of a principal at a school that has been judged very effective in teaching its pupils. Special Memorial Day services are scheduled by Bay St. Louis and Waveland American Legion posts.

Members of American Legion Post No. 139 in Bay St. Louis will conduct services at 10 a.m. Monday at the grave site of Clement R. Bontemps in St. Mary Cemetery on Necaise Avenue. J.D. Rutherford Jr. will give the address.

Bontemps, in whose honor the post is named, was the first soldier from this area killed in World War I.

Following the cemetery services, a Post Everlasting Service will be held at the post's Green Meadow Road home at the monument to World War I, World War II, Korean Conflict, and Vietnam Conflict veterans.

The service will be in honor of post members who have died in the past year. John Wilkerson will give the address.

Waveland's American Legion post's Memorial Day Services will begin at 11 a.m. with an address by Lt. Col. James Brennen of Keesler Air Force Base.

Brief ceremonies will follow the address at the monument honoring Elwood Bourgeois, James Stieffel and Dennis Ray, whom the post is named after.

On Memorial Day we hope each of you will try and attend a service honoring those who gave their life for our freedom. If this is not possible, a least pause a moment in their memory.

We hope to see you at the Memorial Day Services.

THE HOUSE DEFENSE BILL: UNILATERAL SURRENDER

The House of Representatives spent most of last week debating defense policy and voting on amendments as it began consideration of the 1988 Department of Defense Authorization.

There are some positive things in this legislation, including a lot of money for South Mississippi. It contains dollars to initiate the construction of the Navy's homeport at Pascagoula, and there are billions of dollars in potential construction contracts for Ingalls Shipbuilding in Pascagoula.

The authorization bill would provide $93.7 million for the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant in Hancock County and more millions to build a storehouse at the Naval Construction Battalion Center in Gulfport, a squadron operations facility at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi and a firing range and medical facility at Camp Shelby Army National Guard Training Center near Hattiesburg.

The bill also includes an initiative to reform the CHAMPUS system which provides health care for our military retirees. We are trying to come up with a system that works better in making quality health care available to our veterans.

But aside from our local projects in South Mississippi, there are some really bad provisions in this bill.

In the years that I have watched the House of Representatives work, I have never seen greater evidence of unilateral surrender than I saw on the floor of the House of Representatives during this bill's consideration.

The House first voted to cut back the President's defense request by almost $24 billion, several billion dollars below the rate of inflation and $10 billion below a freeze of spending at last year's level.

Our nation can not have what we need militarily to maintain the peace, and, enter into an arms control agreement, if the Congress starts unilaterally disarming. Questions have now arisen over whether we will be able to keep up with the operation and maintenance of equipment that we need to support our personnel. There are concerns as well over the readiness of our military personnel.

One example of the damage the House has done is in its vote on an amendment that says the United States should not have to comply with any treaty which the Soviet Union is known to be violating. By over a 50-vote margin, the House said NO to that amendment. In effect, Congressmen from all over America - including the South - voted to say that the U.S. must abide by some of these treaties even though we know the Soviet Union is violating them.

What kind of insanity is that?

Our only hope is that the Senate will improve the bill and will not get into arms control questions like the SALT II and Anti-Ballistic Missile treaties the way the House has done. Beyond that, if the Senate does not take that language out, the President almost certainly will veto the defense bill, and his veto will be upheld.

The defense of our country is a high priority. We should not spend one nickel more than the threat to this country requires. But if we do not remain militarily strong, we will not get an arms control agreement, and we will not be able to maintain the peace.

Editor

Dear Sir,

"It has seemed to me fit and proper that they should be solemnly, reverently, and gratefully acknowledged as with one heart and one voice by the whole American people..."

—Abraham Lincoln

Those words of the fall of 1863 were intended as salve for a nation divided by civil war, yet blessed with the bounties of wealth and strength, "fruitful fields and healthful skies." Lincoln saw much to be thankful for, much to praise, even in the midst of great anguish over the loss of so many American lives.

Our blessings also include those who have selflessly served and risked life and limb to defend our freedom. I can think of no more appropriate guidance for the observance of Memorial Day than to remember with one heart...one voice...and as one people.

For the values of a civilized and free society, values which they placed higher than their own lives, more than one million have fallen in service to their country. It is our responsibility to remember them by further strengthening the values for which they fought...by exercising the rights for which they died...and by carrying them into the future for our children and their children.

Remembering is not only kneeling before a white marker to plant a tiny flag, donning an old uniform for the annual parade, delivering an eloquent speech or singing a stirring anthem, though they are important traditions. Remembering is much more. It is family and morals; it is voting and speaking out; it is unchecked movement and unrestricted worship; it is committing to freedom and peace everywhere.

I urge all Americans to observe Memorial Day and every day with gratitude and reverence for the past, with pride and in awe of the present and its opportunities, and with confidence and hope in a future that has been built upon determination and struggle and sacrifice.

Freedom was their gift to us; to remember with one heart and one voice is our gift to them.

The Origins of Memorial Day

In 1866, memorial associations were formed in Columbus, Georgia, and Columbus, Mississippi, for the purpose of caring for the graves of both Union and Confederate war dead.

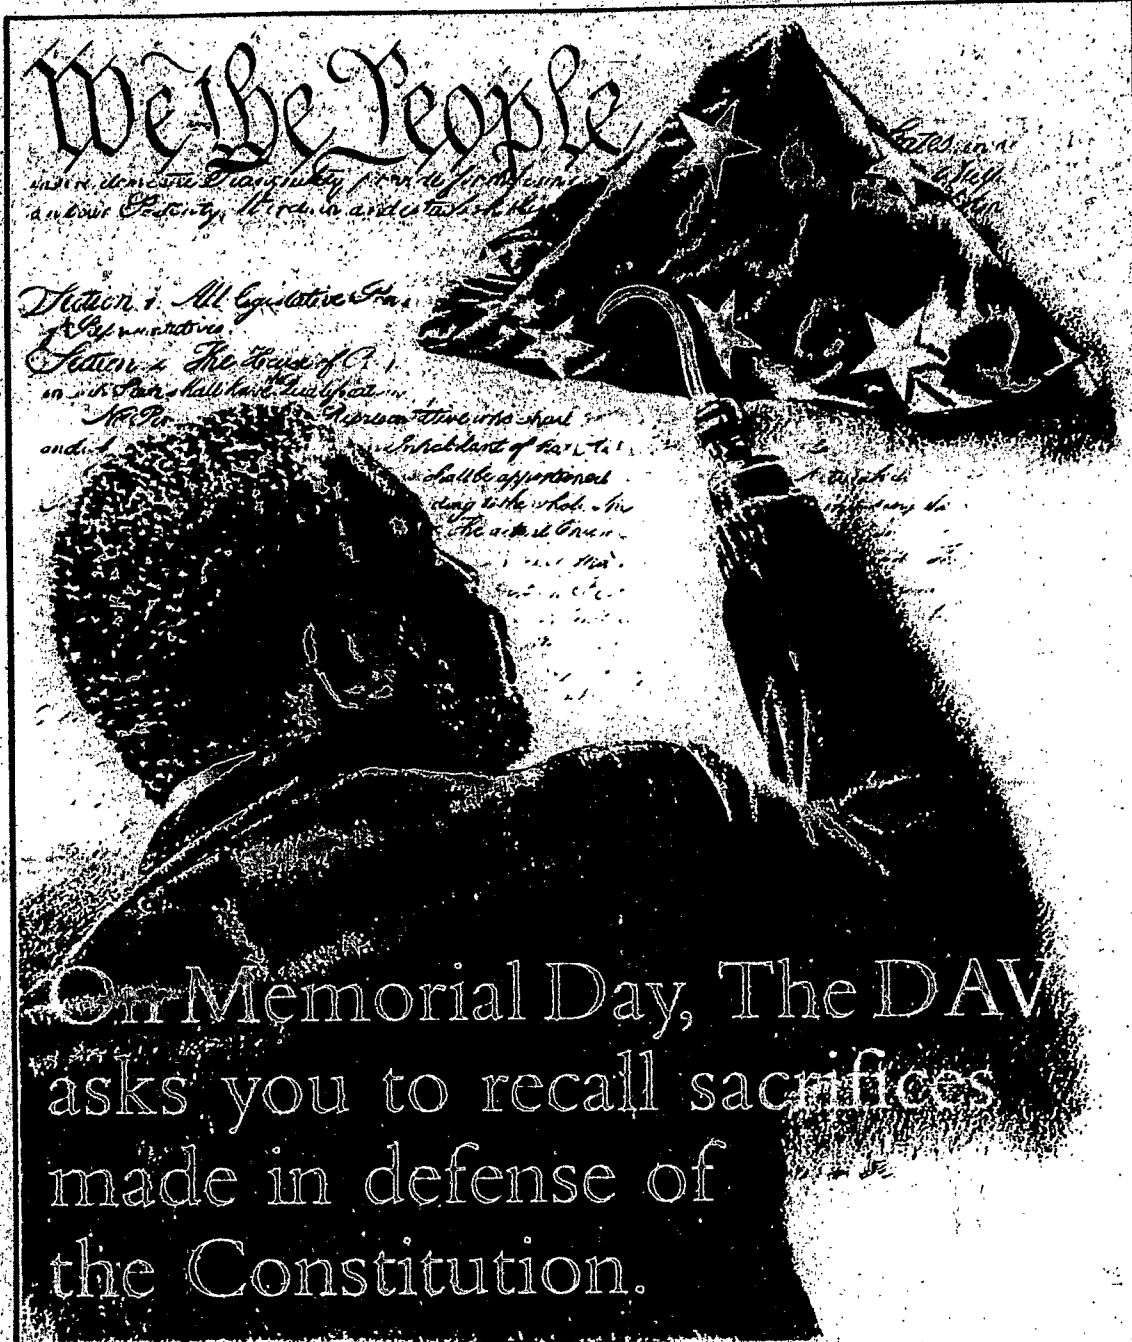

Northern cities also paid respect through special observances. The village of Waterloo, New York, honored its war dead on May 5, 1866, by closing its businesses for the day, flying the flag at half-mast, and decorating the graves of fallen soldiers. In 1867, President Lyndon Johnson issued a proclamation officially recognizing Waterloo as "the birthplace of Memorial Day."

On April 29, 1866, the citizens of Carbondale, Illinois, conducted an all-day observance, including a parade, a barbecue, speeches and the decorating of the graves of some 20 Union soldiers. The principal speaker on this occasion was General John A. Logan.

Undoubtedly drawing from his experiences in Carbondale, Gen. Logan, the first Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued, on May 5, 1868, the general order providing for the nationwide observance of Decoration Day on May 30. This date was chosen in order that, all over the country, there might be flowers in bloom that could be used in decorating the graves.

May 30 remained the official date of the occasion until 1971, when Public Law 90-363 went into effect. It called for uniform annual observances of certain legal public holidays, including Memorial Day. It has since been observed nationally on the last Monday in May.

SMALL BUSINESS ANGLE

by John Sloan

ANOTHER OSHA LOOMS IN WASHINGTON

Opponents are calling it OSHA II, a new government bureaucracy that would harass small-business owners just as the Occupational Safety and Health Administration did in the late '70s.

The High Risk Disease Notification and Prevention Act, now working its way through congressional committees, would require the government to notify workers about health risks on the job and require business owners to pay for testing, evaluation and medical monitoring of employees the government finds to be part of "populations at risk."

The law would require an employer to transfer an employee to a different job if, after testing, a doctor declared such a move necessary. The employee would be permitted to make the switch with no change in pay or benefits.

The legislation threatens severe hardship to smaller firms, because it would include as potential hazards not only chemicals, but practically everything in the workplace, even video display terminals.

OSHA already has a worker-right-to-know program. But backers of OSHA II say the present program doesn't go far enough. That objection will soon be moot because the existing program is about to be expanded to include all non-manufacturing businesses.

That's not good enough for advocates of the new, costly bureaucracy. They simply do not like the way the Reagan administration has managed OSHA. Sponsors of legislation to create OSHA II, Rep. Joseph Gaydos, D-Pa., and Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, would, in essence, create a new bureaucracy with functions narrowly defined to prevent future administrations from deviating from labor goals.

The legislation creates a Risk Assessment Board of eight members, with appropriate staff, working for the Secretary of Health and Human Services. In addition to notifying employees they are at risk and dictating to employers about work rules and assignments, the board would certify occupational and environmental health facilities throughout the country. These centers would show doctors and health and social service professionals how to recognize, diagnose and treat occupational disease.

New worker notification legislation is unnecessary. It would be costly to small businesses because it compounds two of the most critical problems already hurting smaller firms: the cost and availability of liability insurance and the cost of health care.

With government notifying workers that they are "at risk" and workers encouraged to report potential hazards to a new bureaucracy, a wave of suits and counter suits could flood the courts. Such cases often inspire unreasonably high dollar awards.

Of equal concern is the prospect that health insurance costs would rise dramatically. Surveys by the National Federation of Independent Business show the cost of health insurance is already the No. 1 problem of small firms. The new law would force businesses to pick up the medical bills and related costs of workers found to be at risk. Small-business owners who do not have insurance would have to obtain it. Those that have it would pay much more for it.

OSHA II would be costly to employers and to taxpayers. In times of huge deficits, the country does not need it. The expanded worker-right-to-know program should be given a chance to work before any new schemes are considered.

John Sloan is president of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.

Phillipines surrender.....

tand the motive behind this order stop

Wainwright's staff were arrogantly treated, bullied, and denied all common military courtesies. Homma declined to accept Wainwright's surrender of the fortified islands of Manila Bay unless it included the forces under Major Gen. William F. Sharp, Commander of the Visayan-Mindanao forces.

Gen. Wainwright was told that if Homma's demands were not forthcoming in twenty-four hours, the entire American forces on Corregidor, Drum, Caballo, and Carabao would be mercilessly destroyed. Upon Wainwright's return to his headquarters in Malinta Tunnel on Corregidor he sent this message to Gen. Sharp:

"To Major General William F. Sharp,
"Commander Visayan-Mindanao Forces

"Subject: Surrender.
"To put a stop to further useless sacrifice of human life on the fortified islands, yesterday I tendered to Lt. Gen. Homma, the Commander-in-Chief of the Imperial Japanese Forces in the Philippines, the surrender of the four harbor ports of Manila Bay. Gen. Homma declined to accept my surrender unless it included the force under your command. It became apparent that the garrison of these ports would be eventually destroyed by aerial and artillery bombardment and by infantry supported by tanks, which have overwhelmed Corregidor.

"After leaving Gen. Homma with no agreement between us, I decided to accept in the name of humanity his proposal and tendered at midnight 6-7 May, 1942, to the senior Japanese officer on Corregidor, the formal surrender of all American and Philippine Army troops in the Philippines. You will therefore be guided accordingly, and will repeat will surrender all troops under your command both in the Visayan Islands and Mindanao to the proper Japanese officer.

"This decision on my part was forced upon me by means beyond my control. Col. Jesse T. Trywick Jr. GSC, my assistant Chief of Staff G-3, who will deliver this to you, is fully empowered to act for me. You are hereby ordered as the senior American officer in the Philippines to scrupulously carry out the provisions of this letter as well as such additional instructions as Col. Trywick may give you in my name.

"You will repeat the complete text of this letter and of such other instructions as Col. Trywick may give you by radio to General MacArthur. Let me emphasize that there must be on your part no thought of disregarding these instructions. Failure to fully and honestly carry them out can have only the most disastrous results.

(signed) J.M. Wainwright,
Lt. Gen. U.S. Army"

General Wainwright's surrender at midnight 6-7 May, 1942, of all American and Filipino forces in the Philippines would not be acknowledged by Gen. Homma until he had official confirmation that all units under Gen. Sharp had surrendered. These areas were Cebu, commanded by Gen. Chynoweth; Negros, under Col. Hillsman; Leyte and Samar, Col. Cordell; and Malaybalay commanded by Col. Christie. In the interim Gen. Wainwright was given a period of grace, a truce of eight days, for him to accomplish this end.

The following are radio messages between Generals MacArthur and Sharp, Gen. Sharp's messages to the officers under his command, the Japanese terms of surrender, and the subsequent intrigue involved in the eventual surrender of Gen. Sharp's forces. For the rebellious Col. Christie was the last to accept the surrender of Gen. Wainwright.

When Gen. MacArthur received word of Gen. Wainwright's surrender of Corregidor, and the forces of the southern Philippines, he was furious and denounced the validity of Wainwright's authority and command as shown by this radiogram sent from Australia to Gen. Sharp on May 6, 1942 and by another radiogram on May 11.

to the work orders, with the most needed jobs being done first, Courge added.

"It's not our responsibility to work the crews," the Beat One supervisor stated. "I have a radio and I listen. There are some of the supervisors who still interfere with crews too much and that's part of the problem."

"The idea of the unit system is to do work where it's needed most. Until we get out of the road business, it's not the unit system," he added.

Courge added that he does not ride through his beat checking for road problems anymore.

"That's not my responsibility anymore; that's this man's responsibility," he said, indicating Johnson.

Pernicaro said he is unhappy both with the fact that not enough work is being done in his beat and the quality of work, which he contends has suffered because "the crews need somebody out there showing them what to do."

When Ladner said Pernicaro had been directing a crew, Pernicaro reminded him that the crew in question, normally in charge of beach maintenance, had been the one working on the Hancock Medical Center project.

"This board gave me permission," Pernicaro stated.

Johnson said he would be willing to reassign the foremen to see if the county could derive any benefit from it but Ladner said he could see only problems if the proposal were accepted.

Kellar argued that Ladner continually contacts his former foreman for work in Beat Three, rides the roads with him and is actually directing a crew.

"I don't have a foreman," Ladner replied.

"I don't have but one thing I can do then. I'm going to the press and tell them what's happening with the unit system," Kellar stated.

Courge interrupted the discussion between Kellar and Ladner to make a motion that anybody with a road problem should not refer it to Johnson but to the entire board.

Ladner proposed that the board instead agree to talk to Johnson only and not contact crews or foremen directly.

Kellar moved that the board members take their radios out of their pick-up trucks but Courge was concerned about needing them in emergencies such as hurricanes and Trivica stated that he would refuse to give up his radio.

Although Pernicaro contended that Ladner's motion stated "no more than what we've been doing," Courge provided a second and the board voted unanimously to work through Johnson rather than contacting foremen and crews directly.

"I thought we had a gentleman's agreement to do this, but now I think it would be better to put it on the record," Courge said.

Although the motion passed, the discussion continued, with Pernicaro saying Johnson should check on problems himself after second or third complaints on the same matter.

Because Kellar continued to contend that not enough work was being done in Beat Two, Ladner asked, "Then why don't you submit work orders?"

"I was up there and went through the stack the other day and there were only two work orders from your beat," Ladner said.

Courge asked the board to end some of the problems by providing an assistant for Johnson, but no action was taken on his request.

"I want to tell you what this unit system has done. I think this was the best operating board in the State of Mississippi and this has busted this board all up," Kellar said.

"I believe that was the purpose of it from the start. I really do," he added.

In other business, the board:

—Discussed but delayed action on a proposed personnel policy for road crew employees;

—Delayed selection of a board of commissioners for the recently created Hancock County Sewer District 1;

—Agreed to reroute the planned main line for that district's first sewage collection system down Highway 603 and through Waveland rather than use the original route through Bay St. Louis; and

—Heard a report from Kellar regarding $35,000 in grant funds originally believed to be available for development of the beachfront at Buccaneer State Park, which is not available because State Bureau of Outdoor Recreation officials will not approve grant funds for leased property.

The board meets again at 9 a.m. Thursday in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

The siege ended, and the mighty fortress Corregidor has over the years faded into oblivion. Wednesday, May 6, 1987 marks the 45th anniversary of the surrender. May I offer this humble tribute to the garrison and the troops that defended it for five bitter months, with no relief or hope, for they were expendable.

I believe that the records show that today fewer than 50 native Mississippians who served on Corregidor muster for the long roll. In Hancock County only one native son, Fred A. Curet, a true American patriot who served his country, his state, and the community, survives. To sum it all up, I offer this salute to Fred Curet and all the Philippine and American troops who fought gallantly, many to give their lives, for this great nation and for that long lost cause.

"For once again the waves lap against the rocks of Corregidor, endlessly tugging, forever groaning in the perpetual struggle between rock and sea.

"Again the jungle reigns supreme, covering with its dense foliage the deep scars left by bombs and shells. "Caressing with the gentle fingers vine and fern the spots where roses fell and died: spilling guts and blood on God's eternal earth."

On top side Corregidor the Pacific War Memorial stands; with a circular altar symbolic of a wreath of glory as a major focal point. Inscribed on the rim of the altar are the following words:

Sleep, my sons, your duty done, freedom's light has come. Sleep in the silent depths of the earth or in your bed of hallowed sod, until you hear at dawn the low or revolve of God."

God Bless America" with warm personal regards. J.C. Baxter

MIKE STURDIVANT

Sturdivant announces for governor

Mike Sturdivant, farmer and businessman from Glendora in the Mississippi Delta, has announced his candidacy for governor.

He graduated from Mississippi State University with a degree in agricultural engineering, and later attended Harvard Business School.

He is married to Yvondine Walker Sturdivant of Lambert. They are members of the Glendora United Methodist Church, where Sturdivant teaches an adult Sunday School class.

Sturdivant and his wife have five children: Mike P. Sturdivant Jr. of Greenwood, James Walker Sturdivant of Greenville, Benjamin Sykes Sturdivant of Glendora, Gaines P. Sturdivant of Jackson and Yvondine

G. Sturdivant of Glendora.

Sturdivant is chairman of the board for Mississippi Management, Inc., a firm which operates hotels, motels and restaurants in Mississippi, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana and Tennessee.

He is also managing partner of Due West, a business with extensive farming interest in the Mississippi Delta.

Sturdivant is currently serving as a member of the Fiscal Management Board of the State of Mississippi. He was appointed to the position in 1984 by Gov. Bill Allain.

From 1972 to 1976, he was a member of the board of trustees for the Institutions of Higher Learning and was chairman of the Finance Committee.

Among his business affiliations, Sturdivant is a member of the executive committee and board of directors of Stapl Cotton Cooperative Association, a member of the board of trustees for Millsaps College, a member of the executive committee and board of directors for United Southern Bank, member of the executive committee and board of directors for the Yazoo Valley-Minter City Oil Mill, vice-chairman of the board of managers for Methodist Health Systems of Memphis and is director of the Delta Council.

Sturdivant is past-president of the International Association of Holiday Inns and was a former member of the Southern Regional Education Board.

to the work orders, with the most needed jobs being done first, Courge added.

"It's not our responsibility to work the crews," the Beat One supervisor stated. "I have a radio and I listen. There are some of the supervisors who still interfere with crews too much and that's part of the problem."

"The idea of the unit system is to do work where its needed most. Until we get out of the road business, it's not the unit system," he added.

Courge added that he does not ride through his beat checking for road problems anymore.

"That's not my responsibility anymore; that's this man's responsibility," he said, indicating Johnson.

Pernicaro said he is unhappy both with the fact that not enough work is being done in his beat and the quality of work, which he contends has suffered because "the crews need somebody out there showing them what to do."

When Ladner said Pernicaro had been directing a crew, Pernicaro reminded him that the crew in question, normally in charge of beach maintenance, had been the one working on the Hancock Medical Center project.

"This board gave me permission," Pernicaro stated.

Johnson said he would be willing to reassign the foremen to see if the county could derive any benefit from it but Ladner said he could see only problems if the proposal were accepted.

Kellar argued that Ladner continually contacts his former foreman for work in Beat Three, rides the roads with him and is actually directing a crew.

"I don't have a foreman," Ladner replied.

"I don't have but one thing I can do then. I'm going to the press and tell them what's happening with the unit system," Kellar stated.

Courge interrupted the discussion between Kellar and Ladner to make a motion that anybody with a road problem should not refer it to Johnson but to the entire board.

Ladner proposed that the board instead agree to talk to Johnson only and not contact crews or foremen directly.

Kellar moved that the board members take their radios out of their pick-up trucks but Courge was concerned about needing them in emergencies such as hurricanes and Travira stated that he would refuse to give up his radio.

Although Pernicaro contended that Ladner's motion stated "no more than what we've been doing," Courge provided a second and the board voted unanimously to work through Johnson rather than contacting foremen and crews directly.

"I thought we had a gentleman's agreement to do this, but now I think it would be better to put it on the record," Courge said.

Although the motion passed, the discussion continued, with Pernicaro saying Johnson should check on problems himself after second or third complaints on the same matter.

Because Kellar continued to contend that not enough work was being done in Beat Two, Ladner asked, "Then why don't you submit work orders?"

"I was up there and went through the stack the other day and there were only two work orders from your beat," Ladner said.

Courge asked the board to end some of the problems by providing an assistant for Johnson, but no action was taken on his request.

"I want to tell you what this unit system has done. I think this was the best operating board in the State of Mississippi and this has busted this board all up," Kellar said.

"I believe that was the purpose of it from the start. I really do," he added.

In other business, the board: —Discussed but delayed action on a proposed personnel policy for road crew employees;

—Delayed selection of a board of commissioners for the recently created Hancock County Sewer District 1;

—Agreed to reroute the planned main line for that district's first sewage collection system down Highway 603 and through Waveland rather than use the original route through Bay St. Louis; and

—Heard a report from Kellar regarding $35,000 in grant funds originally believed to be available for development of the beachfront at Buccaner State Park, which is not available because State Bureau of Outdoor Recreation officials will not approve grant funds for leased property.

The board meets again at 9 a.m. Thursday in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Corregidor....

"To General Sharp:

"Colonel Thayer arrived last night and decision made to comply faithfully with your orders for the surrender of my division stop (signed) Col. A.J. Christie"

The siege ended, and the mighty fortress Corregidor has over the years faded into oblivion. Wednesday, May 6, 1987 marks the 45th anniversary of the surrender. May I offer this humble tribute to the garrison and the troops that defended it for five bitter months, with no relief or hope, for they were expendable.

I believe that the records show that today fewer than 50 native Mississippians who served on Corregidor muster for the long roll. In Hancock County only one native son, Fred A. Curet, a true American patriot who served his country, his state, and the community, survives.

To sum it all up. I offer this salute to Fred Curet and all the Philippine and American troops who fought gallantly, many to give their lives, for this great nation and for that long lost cause.

"For once again, the waves lap against the rocks of Corregidor, endlessly tugging, forever groaning in the perpetual struggle between rock and sea."

"Again the jungle reigns supreme, covering with its dense foliage the deep scars left by bombs and shells. "Caressing with the gentle fingers of vine and fern the spots where heroes fell and died, spilling guts and blood on God's eternal earth."

On top side Corregidor the Pacific War Memorial stands, with a circular altar symbolic of a wreath of victory as a major focal point. Inscribed on the rim of the altar are the following words:

"Sleep, my sons, your duty done, for freedom's light has come.

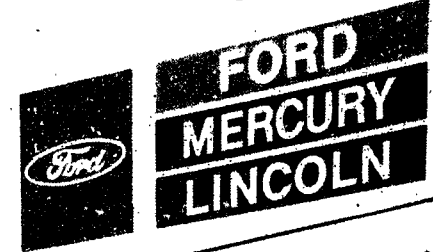

"Sleep in the silent depths of the sea or in your bed of hallowed sod,

"Until you hear at dawn the low clear reveille of God.

God Bless America" With warm personal regards.

Biloxi Shrimp Festival named top 20 tourist event

The Biloxi Shrimp Festival and Blessing of the Fleet, to be held June 5, 6 and 7, has been named one of the top 20 tourist events in the Southeast United States by the Southeast Tourist Society.

Sponsored by the St. Michael's Catholic Church, the Slavonian Benevolent Lodge, the Fleur de Lis Society and the City of Biloxi, the festival attracts several thousand people to celebrate the beginning of shrimp season on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Shrimp Festival activities begin Friday, June 5 with opening ceremonies and presentation of Shrimp Queen contestants and judges. The gates of Point Cadet Plaza open at noon Saturday, June 6, for the Fais Do Do, featuring nonstop entertainment, a flea market and plenty of shrimp and refreshments. The Queen of the festival will be selected Saturday afternoon and will be presented to the public with her King at the Point Cadet plaza.

The Blessing of the Fleet activities begin Sunday, June 7 at 1 p.m. at the Biloxi Small Craft Harbor where the Blessing can be viewed starting at 2 p.m. with the traditional dropping of the wreath memorializing deceased fishermen.

"The Southeast Tourist Society's recognition solidifies the Shrimp Festival and Blessing of the Fleet as the top entertainment event of the area," Festival Chairman Gary Dubaz said. "Over 150 publications across the United States print the Top 20 Tourist Attraction list, which will spread the word that the Shrimp Festival is an event to be a part of." The Blessing of the Fleet is a 300-year-old tradition brought to Biloxi by immigrant fishermen from the Adriatic Sea. Originating as a religious ceremony for fishermen to be blessed before going out to sea, the event has blossomed into a parade of thousands of boats decorated to celebrate the beginning of shrimp season on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The judges for the Shrimp Queen contest are: Mickey Holmes, executive director for the Sugar Bowl, Vera Stevens, Harrison County tourism director and Sandy Jones, wife of Keesler Air Force Base Technical Training Center Commander Maj. General James Jones.

The judges for the Blessing of the Fleet boat decoration contest are: Maj. General James Jones, Dr. Mercer Miller Jr., field representative for Congressman Trent Lott and Billy Creel, general manager, Biloxi Hilton.

Site elevation to be studied before soil borings are taken

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Officials will examine elevation information on a site for the proposed new county junior-senior high school before allowing work to proceed on a contract for soil borings.

The Hancock County School Board agreed last week to delay the work called for in a contract to make five soil borings on the site until the elevation was determined.

"The board members need to select two or three prospective sites for the school for actual elevation information to be gathered," Hancock County Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin said Friday.

Boudin is acting on a request for assistance in determining the elevation.

"Some of the land in the 40-acre site is in the flood plain and some of it is not, the board needs to pick a few of the highest spots to check elevation, not the entire site," he added.

Boudin also said he had been unable to contact a county engineer who would be able to make the elevation determinations.

However Superintendent Terrell Randolph reported Saturday to the board in a recess meeting he had already obtained information on the elevation of the site.

"When it is decided (based on the elevation) actually where the soil borings are to be made, then the work will begin," said School Board Member Wayne King.

Ladner Testing Laboratories of Hattiesburg was awarded the bid last week as the low bidder for the five soil borings contract with a bid of $1,350.

It was reported earlier awarding of the contract had been delayed but actually the work was what was delayed.

The board had been considering bids on the contract in a meeting Monday when Rocky Hill, resident Johnnie Richard recommended the elevation of the site be determined before having soil boring tests made.

If the elevation of the site is not known, the board may have soil borings taken on a site that will be impossible to build on, Richard said.

After a lengthy discussion, the board concurred that the work would not begin until the elevation was determined.

The three board members who were present at the time of this discussion, King, Lennette Necaise and Frank Miller, repeated Friday the soil borings would not be taken until after the elevation of the site was determined.

However Randolph said he did not recall this agreement by the board.

"The soil borings and the elevation information is being gathered to prove to county residents this site is suitable for the school," Necaise said.

Miller said if the site is determined to be unsuitable, the board will begin negotiations with the Crump family, who donated the land for the school, for another site in the area.

RETIREMENT—Margaret Gavagule, left, talks with Pam Bilbo, her successor as branch manager of Security Savings in Bay St. Louis. Gavagule recently retired as assistant vice-president with Security Savings in Bay St. Louis after 15 years with the company. She was honored by the Security Savings Board of Directors with a special resolution listing her accomplishments with the company. She has also been a long-time supporter of Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and is a member of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

ETV Brief

DOCTOR WHO

"Doctor Who" fans in Mississippi may keep their six-foot scarves in the closet and throw out the celery because the long-awaited movies starring Colin Baker as the intergalactic time traveler enter the Mississippi airways Saturday, May 30. Baker is the sixth actor to portray the superhero from the planet Gallifrey.

Mississippi ETV will air the first seven Colin Baker stories at 4 p.m., Saturdays, beginning the 30th, picking up where Baker's predecessor Peter Davison turns over the TARDIS controls.

Unlike Davison's dashing but understated portrayal of the Doctor that inexplicably sported a sprig of celery in his coat pocket, Baker returns to a more flamboyant characterization.

of the elevation, if the site is determined to be unsuitable for any reason, it would work with the Crump family to find another site.

"The Crump family (who donated the site for the new school to the district) have stated they will work with the school board to locate if needed a more desirable site anywhere between Jourdan River and Interstate 10," Randolph said.

The board wants to get the best site available in this area for the school, he added.

He also said the Educational Finance Commission has given preliminary approval of this site and its approval means more than $600,000 to the district.

County resident Johnnie Richard told the board he had seen maps in an insurance office which indicate, the site is in a probable flood zone area.

Randolph said he had already checked with insurance agents on this matter and was investigating the problem.

"If this site is subject to tidal surge in hurricanes, it should not be a suitable site," stated Board Member Wayne King.

It was reported in the meeting Board Member Billie Lyons was gathering information on this issue and would present it to the board.

During the meeting, the board also refused to comment on a change in administrators at Hancock Elementary School.

Former HNC principal Dick Kinser who had previously left the school district, is currently serving as acting principal at the school.

Dr. Diane Tucker, who had been serving as principal, is no longer employed with the school district.

The board also refused to comment on reports that Tucker had been fired.

The meeting was adjourned to Hancock North Central High School campus for the board members to conduct a tour of school facilities.

The next scheduled board meeting will be 6:30 p.m. June 1 at the Superintendent's office at Stennis International Airport.

In Coastal Gardens

By John E. Davis
Horticulture Specialist, MCES
Glorious flowers - exciting colors - imaginative ideas - and all are possible with or without a garden when you enter into the world of container gardening.

If you're blessed with a large garden, containers can carry the themes and schemes through to the walkways, on the steps, balcony or small backyard; containers become your chief source of flowers, colors and ideas.

Anything that will hold a planting mix can be used in your container garden, from purchased pots of plastic, stone or clay to improvised bird baths, wheelbarrows, tires, an old red wagon, lengths of PVC pipes with holes drilled along them, drainage tiles, fruit crates, bushel baskets, plastic milk cases, or wood barrels.

Make forms with chicken wire into the shapes of animals and fill them to overflowing with plants.

Just be sure your container has adequate drainage holes and is filled with a soilless mixture of one-half peat moss or bark mixed with one-half vermiculite or perlite. For a change of pace, plant your flowers right into the soil mix bag.

When you run out of ground space, grow up! A colorful hanging garden is used to create with flowering annuals. Be conventional with hanging baskets or imaginative with bird cages, wicker baskets or wooden birch. Suspend your garden from tree limbs, patio walls, and the porch ceilings. Baskets soften harsh lines, close up massive spaces, bring drab decks alive. Windows, doorways and railings take on a new accent.

The best thing about baskets, however, is that they add a new dimension to gardening.

Your planting can be as simple as one pot filled with geraniums, petunias or marigolds, or as complex as a mixed bouquet of a half-dozen different annuals in different textures and colors.

Most popular for containers are petunias, in either one variety or mixed and matched. New this year is "Purple Pirouette" with large ruffled, double blooms of rich purple edged in white.

Baskets, tubs, urns and window boxes were made for the large blooms of grandiflora petunias, especially the "Supercascades" and the "Cascades" in every color imaginable. For a mixed petunia garden, let the petunia stems overflow the container and plant the center with "Carabiniere" salvia.

Geraniums, too, are spectacular alone or combined with other plants. "Red Fountain," bred especially for hanging baskets, cascades over window boxes and tubs as well. It can be used with other geraniums or with an upright grower such as one of the "Nicki" nicotianas.

Attempt to combine a spiked plant in the center, with a mounded form around it, completed by a trailer over the sides.

Where temperatures skyrocket in the summer, a very successful and unusual candidate for a container garden is an ornamental pepper, particularly the varieties "Fireworks," "Holiday Cheer" and "Red Missile."

Combine them with yellow, rose, or orange "Wildfire" portulaca for a garden that will perform even under the hottest of conditions.

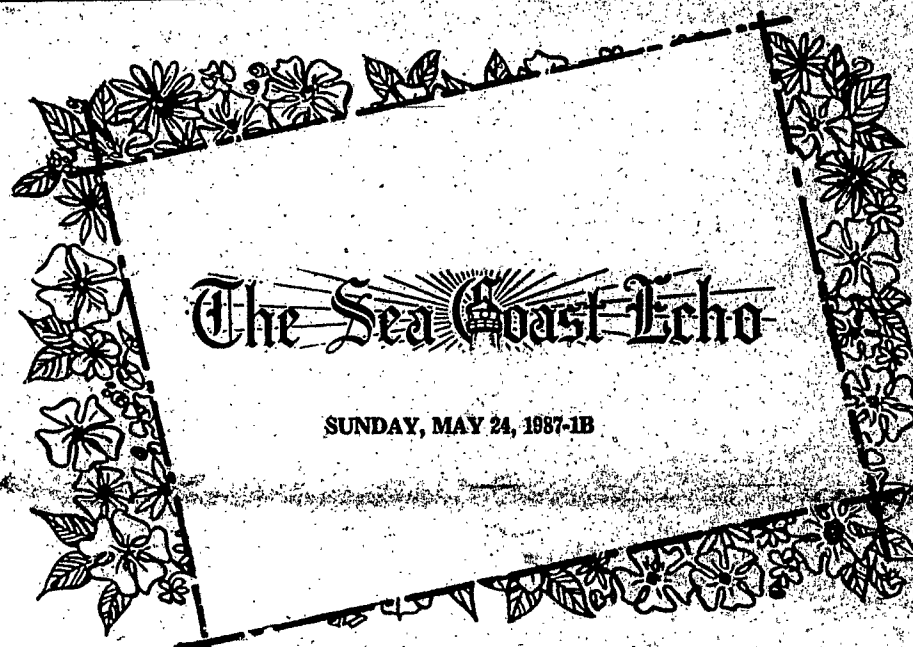

Have a strawberry jar? Then fill it with strawberries and enjoy the color as well as the luscious, sun-ripened flavor of the sweet fruit. No strawberry jar? Strawberries are glorious in any container or basket; for a "something different" look, try them in a plant tower.

If you don't want them to grow down, grow up! The "Susie" black-eyed Susan vines in shades of yellow, orange or white will climb a stake, pole, drainpipe or the supports of your roof.

A few tips for container gardening will ensure summer-long success.

1. Plant annuals closer together than you would in the ground for a fuller look.
2. Water often, perhaps every day, as containers dry out faster than the ground.
3. Fertilize often, but lightly with a water-soluble houseplant fertilizer.
4. If the container loses its "zing," move it into an out-of-the-way spot until it revives.
5. Turn the container often for even growth.
6. Place large containers on casters so they can be moved easily.

When it comes to container gardening, your only limitation is your imagination.

Everybody's Science

Musical Fabrics

By Don Comis

At the Smithsonian Museum of American History in Washington, D.C., the flag that inspired the national anthem is on display only three minutes in every hour, when a curtain rises and falls to the melody of the "Star Spangled Banner."

The flag used to hang in plain sight all day, but the deterioration of the fabric led museum experts to protect it from light except for brief appearances.

Museum directors everywhere are concerned about similar deterioration in fabrics far older than the Fort McHenry flag. Until now, they had to depend on visual inspection to determine condition.

The only way they could analyze fabrics called for vaporizing, burning or chemically altering the cloth.

In short, you had to destroy part of the fabric you wanted to preserve.

Help has come from an unlikely source—the U.S. Department of Agriculture. J. Michael Gould, a chemist with USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Peoria, Ill., worked out a new way to analyze cellulose in straw and other crop residues.

Gould bombards crop fibers with rapid pulses of intense infrared light that cause the fibers to emit a steady, almost musical, tone that tells a lot about the structure of the fibers. ("No, said Gould wearily, 'they don't play 'Turkey in the Straw.'")

A professor of textile science at Virginia Polytechnic Institute read about Gould's method and wondered if it would help her find out how much air and sunlight degraded textiles.

"The technique sounded most pro-missing for cotton," she said, "which is 90 percent cellulose."

She asked Gould to analyze cotton fragments from an Indian breech cloth and other items found at archaeological sites in Arizona. Sure enough, the two scientists were able to identify changes in the Indian artifacts resulting from centuries of oxidation.

Once museum curators know for sure that a particular fabric is deteriorating, she pointed out, they can take steps to slow down the damage by lowering the oxygen level in the display case or reducing exposure to sunlight, as is done at the Smithsonian.

It's a fresh approach to an old idea, says Gould, who credits Alexander Graham Bell with describing the technique in a long-forgotten paper 107 years ago.

Mississippi Coast Historical and Genealogical Society

Sir Jack D.L. Holmes, a scholar in Latin American studies, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Mississippi Coast Historical and Genealogical Society Sunday, June 14, at 2 p.m. at Biloxi City Hall.

Holmes, a resident of Birmingham, Alabama, has been selected by the Department of Archives and History to serve as the scholar-in-residence for the Mississippi Mindscape - The Spanish Tradition Project.

This involves translation of records written in old Spanish during the Spanish Colonial period at the end of the 18th century. ### Bay-Waveland Garden Club

Immediately preceding the May meeting of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club, a ceremony was held to dedicate the plaque which designates the building as now being in the National Register of Historic Places.

The dedication, given by Mrs. Ethel Evans, while the mayor of Bay St. Louis and members of the Garden Club stood by, detailed the history of the building from the time the property was a Land Grant in 1836 up to the one-room school house built in 1915.

Research on the project had been done by Mrs. Meg Hiltner, chairman of Historic Preservation for the club. After it was abandoned as a school house, the ladies of the Bay-Waveland Garden took it over as their Garden Center.

Announcement was made of the winners of the May Gardens of the month—Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Strahan, 303 Ramoneda, Bay St. Louis, and Mr. and Mrs. William Rotherman, 330 Hillcrest, Waveland.

Awards won at the State Convention in Laurel in April were displayed. They were a blue ribbon, State No. 10, for the 1986 Pilgrimage; State No. 13 for Press Book; State No. 11 for Yearbook; State No. 24 and National No. 35 for the Flower Show held together with the Diamondhead Garden Club at the County Fair. The club-sponsored High School Gardeners won awards at both the state and national level.

Mrs. Frances Crawley was announced as being a new member, and for the first time in the history of the Garden Club, honorary membership was bestowed on a man, Jack Newkirk, for his many years of untiring work for the club.

The White Elephant Sale was postponed until Friday, May 23 at the Garden Center. Sharon Kleinpeter, chairman of the event, can be contacted at 467-8351.

Mrs. Alyce Newkirk, club historian, gave the history of the club's accomplishments during the past year.

Mrs. Ethel Evans then installed the 1987-88 officers with a candlelighting ceremony.

Out-going president, Lisa Coward, was given a lighted candle, and in turn lit candles for the new treasurer, Evelyn Caveroc; corresponding secretary, Polly Ramsey; recording secretary, Moira Ambrose; third vice president, Rosemary Lagaist; second vice president, Donna Van Wyckhouse; first vice president, Nanette Murphree and president, Aggie Tompkins.

Mrs. Jean Gleim, hostess for the refreshment hour, introduced her co-hostesses, Bernice Augrain, Muriel Brokmeier, Rosemary Lagaist, Jerry Rutherford, Mary Leigh Weston, Nola Brennan, Joan Gauthier, Ruth Logan, Dot Hamman and Donna Van Wyckhouse.

One name in central air conditioning
is a household word.

In the central air conditioning business, the Whirlpool name has become a household word — a name you know, a name you can trust — for quality, dependability, and service. Chances are, the Whirlpool name is already an important part of your household. Maybe it helps you cook, wash dishes, or do the laundry.

Millions of American families also depend on Whirlpool to keep their homes cool and comfortable — even on the hottest days of summer. And when you think about it, it makes a lot of sense to trust your family's comfort to the name you've depended on so many times before — Whirlpool.

Best of all

Japanese business leaders tour tri-county facilities

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County Port and Harbor officials escorted a group of five Japanese business representatives on a tour of industrial facilities and the National Space Technology Laboratories in the county on Wednesday.

It was part of a three-day coastal tour given by the Mississippi Gulf Coast Economic Commissions as a result of a tri-county mission to New York City in February, where members visited representatives of targeted Japanese companies and the Japanese Consulate in February of 1987.

Hancock Port and Harbor officials conducting the tour included Buz Olsen, executive director; Ronald Artigues, president; David McDonald, treasurer; Nancy Gex, commission member; and Tom Adams, senior industrial developer of the Mississippi Department of Economic Development.

Stennis International Airport, Stennis Airpark, Port Blenville,

Diamondhead Resort and NSTL were the primary places of interest for the Japanese businessmen in Hancock County.

The Japanese businessmen included Mikihisa Komoto, president of Mitsui Zosen (USA), Inc.; Dr. Teizo Okawa, technical advisor of Nichimen American, Inc.; Takayuki Tanaka, economist for The Long Term Cr. Bank of Japan, Ltd.; Takao Hayashida, vice-president and secretary of Toshiba America, Inc.; and Yukihiko Kimura, corporate secretary of Toda American, Inc. Mrs. Takao Hayashida accompanied the group.

Areas of business interests visited in the Mississippi Gulf Coast counties included available buildings, industrial parks, water, port and harbor facilities, transportation access, federal installations, educational and recreational facilities, and quality of life aspects of the area.

The Mississippi Economic Development was also involved in the Japanese mission and arranged transportation. Jerry McDonald, executive director, and Tom Adams, senior industrial developer, also escorted the representatives.

Tours and business briefings were conducted by directors and commission members of the tri-county development commissions.

The Japanese group arrived Monday evening at Gulfport-Biloxi Regional Airport and toured Jackson County Tuesday morning and Harrison County in the afternoon.

Artigues said, "Our specialized labor force availability is paying the way to many diverse manufacturing and industrial groups and this tri-county effort helps deliver that message."

Bill Allison, president of the Harrison County Development Commission, stated, "This effort recognized the commitment of the development agencies on the Mississippi Gulf Coast to working together and enhancing our regional development efforts."

President Douglas Fontaine of the Jackson County Economic Development District, summed it up by stating, "The Japanese mission seemed particularly impressed with the many facilities available in the tri-counties and our collective efforts gave us the ability to show them prime sites throughout the three-county area."

Wastewater district charges cause Bay St. Louis bankruptcy concern

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council conducted probably its shortest and least eventful meeting ever Tuesday.

The only action taken in the meeting was to adjourn.

However immediately following this the council began a workshop session on the proposed utility rate increases.

In this session the council questioned city administrators about what would happen if it decided not to increase utility rates.

Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz said the city could be facing bankruptcy if there is no raise in utility rates.

"We are losing money every month in the utility department and if there is no raise in utility rates the city would be in a position of running out of money," he said.

The city would not be able to pay staff and soon would not be able to deliver any city services, Frankiewicz said.

"If you think people are upset about facing higher utility rates, imagine what it would be like if we could not offer them any city services," he continued.

"The bottom line is that we have a bunch of new money that we have to come up with," he said.

The "bunch of new money" totals over $2 million dollars and more than half this amount is Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District costs.

"Payments to the regional wastewater authority have exceeded the revenues collected by $288,000," Frankiewicz said.

He told the council, the city was required by law to pay whatever the wastewater district billed the city.

"As one of the three representatives on the wastewater authority, I have tried consistently to hold down costs by opposing low quality engineering, needless construction of costly facilities and operational frills unnecessary for a sewer district," he said.

"Bay St. Louis is paying the majority of the costs in the wastewater district now but has only one voice in three on the board," Frankiewicz said.

He also said the only thing that can change the representation on the board is a two-thirds vote by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

"Bay St. Louis residents are represented on board of supervisors by three members and I think it is time for city residents to voice their concern to their representatives," Frankiewicz said.

The council also discussed the need to trim the city's budget wherever possible to come up with extra funding.

Frankiewicz said the budget was fairly tight but some trimming could possibly be done.

"I just think that if there is any place we can cut back, we need to do it," Councilman Lisa Coward said.

"Anything we cut out here will be less money that has to come out of the city residents' pockets," she continued.

The council did stress although it was considering budget cuts, employee salaries were not being considered for cuts.

"I am opposed to any pay cut for city employees in any way, shape or form," Councilman John Wilkerson said.

"I have seen a list of employee salaries and most people in this city would not work for these salaries," he said.

The council was expected to meet Wednesday night with area residents in a public hearing on the proposed utility rate increases.

More than 40 qualify so far

By DENA BISNETTE

More than 40 candidates have qualified for this year's county election and seven have qualified for district races.

The deadline for qualifying is 5 p.m. June 5. The Democratic primary will be Aug. 4, with a runoff scheduled for Aug. 25. The general election will follow in November.

According to Hancock County Election Commission Secretary Charles Gottschalk, those in district races who officially remained unopposed late Wednesday included incumbent District Attorney Cono Caranna, incumbent District 46 State Senator Gene Taylor, District 106 state representative candidate Sherman J. Gaspard and District 122 state representative candidate J.P. Compretta.

District candidates have to qualify with the Office of the Secretary of State. Glen Cannon has announced his intention to run against Caranna but the Hancock County Circuit Clerk's Office has not yet received notification from the secretary of state's office, Circuit clerk John D. Rutherford Jr. said.

He said the candidates included on the district list notified his office themselves. The list from the Secretary of State's office is not provided to individual counties until after June 5.

Also included in the district races is an election for State Senate in District 47 which includes two Republicans, Mark Formby and Marc A. Chetta, and one Democrat, Sherry S. Morris.

In local races, candidates qualify with the circuit clerk's office.

Three candidates including incumbent Ronald "Ronnie" Peterson are running for sheriff. His opponents include Bay St. Louis Police Chief Ray Murphy and Hancock County Truant Officer Frank McNeil.

Chancery Clerk E. Michael Necaise and Tax Assessor and Collector Edward "Eddie" D. Murtagh Jr. are both unopposed.

Rutherford is not running again and three candidates, all Democrats, are vying for the Circuit Clerk's office. They include Chief Deputy Circuit clerk Pamela L. Metzler, Bay zoning official Madeline Prendergast and Larry Peterson.

Incumbent Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terrell "Terry" Randolph is opposed by W.J. Cameron, principal of Bay Junior High.

Gail R. Nami, a Republican, will run against incumbent Coroner Harold J. Siglet Sr.

In the election for Justice Court judge, East District, Incumbent Joseph Dobson will face Republican Buford L. Ladner. A third candidate, Donovan "Carl" Cuevas, has withdrawn.

In the West District, judge candidates include one Republican, J.D. "Tony" Miller, and four Democrats, Lee B. Klein, Darrell W. Ladner, Richard "Bob" Tarver and Merle "Arleene" Sanchez.

Two candidates for constable, Paul Pierce in the East District and Donald J. Gambill in the West District, have withdrawn.

Kire C. "Junior" Mitchell will face Paul Ladner in the East District. The West District includes six candidates, Oliver W. Lee Sr., Nathan Hoda Jr., Marion Necaise, Gary Lynn Bennett, Johnny Truanos and Richard Joseph Fayard Sr.

Four out of five incumbent supervisors are opposed and all five are running again.

Bay schools to provide summer meals program

By DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis School District Board has given formal approval to a summer meals program for children and handicapped people.

The board voted Tuesday afternoon to approve the program, which had been discussed at prior meetings and set to begin on June 8.

Children from ages one year to 18 years may participate, according to Linda Gavagnie of the school district's central office.

People older than 18 who have been determined by a state or local educational agency to be physically or mentally handicapped may participate if they are currently enrolled in a public or private nonprofit education program.

Anyone who needs information on eligibility should contact Gavagnie at 467-9242.

Gavagnie said the meals are being provided with state funds and fall under the same nutrition guidelines as the National School Lunch and School Breakfast programs.

Doris Barnes, a Bay School District Food Service employee, will supervise preparation and serving of the meals.

Current plans call for 100 meals at breakfast and 150 meals at lunch to be provided at Waveland Elementary School and St. Rose Fifth Grade Center.

Breakfast hours scheduled at both locations will be 8:30 a.m. until 9:30 a.m. Lunches are scheduled to be served from noon until 1:30 p.m.

The number of meals may be expanded later if the number of participants is larger than anticipated.

The program provides no transportation.
